Talk about it: A tempestuous wind called Euroclydon caught the ship (Acts 27:14–15). The angel of God told Paul, "God hath given thee all them that sail with thee," and they escaped all safe to land on the island called Melita (Acts 27:23–24, 27:44, 28:1). Paul said, "Be of good cheer: for I believe God" (Acts 27:25).

“Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.”

Acts 27:25 (KJV)
